Amazing success story from Julie, one of our members:

Before

After

Julie lost 2 and a half stone!

This time last year I felt awful, both physically and mentally. I was eating and drinking way too much. I suffered with stomach problems and was tired all the time. Over the years I'd picked up some really bad eating habits and together with little exercise I gained a lot of weight. I felt uncomfortable with myself and unhealthy. I knew I had to change.

I've tried many diets before but as soon as they'd finished I'd slip back into my old ways and regain the weight, so this time I told myself this wasn't a diet it was about making small changes every day and doing some regular exercise, so I decided to join Harlow Sportcentre.

I was nervous at my induction as it had been a long time since I'd done any real exercise but my personal trainer Caroline kindly reassured me I'd be alright even when she weighed me!

She talked me through everything I needed to know about the benefits of healthy eating and exercise and went on to offer me support throughout the year. Everyone who knows me knows what a sweet tooth I have, so in the beginning cutting back was tough, the chocolate and alcohol especially!!

I found the more I went to the gym the less I thought about the biscuit tin. I started to make better food choices, I don't deprive myself of anything and that way I feel more in control. I try to eat 3 healthy meals a day and snack on fruit and nuts if I want them. I add plenty of fresh fruit or veg to each meal. I've had fun trying out new recipes too and I still enjoy the occasional glass of red wine with dinner.

The weight started to come off slowly and instead of using scales I used a tape measure and was happy when the inches started to come off and my shape started to change. For the first time in years I started to feel good about myself I really enjoy all kinds of exercise from racket sports to jogging on the treadmill, it really lifts my mood and makes me feel good. I can't wait for Leisurezone to open so I can go swimming which I love.

A year on and I've lost just over two and a half stone and feel like I have so much more energy than I used to, no more falling asleep mid-afternoon!! I use the Sportcentre at least 3 times a week and enjoy having some 'me' time.

I'm very happy with my new mindset as well as my new figure. I feel so much healthier.

Congratulations to Julie. I think you'll agree she looks stunning!

So, why not let us help you achieve YOUR goals for a healthy, happy 2010 and beyond! Spring into Summer!

TRAGEDY OF PAH BIRTH 'BLUNDERS'

Payout to boy (7) left with severe disabilities

THE devoted parents of a seven-year-old boy left with "maximum disabilities" after being starved of oxygen at birth have won a multi-million pound compensation payout from Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Lawyers issued a public apology and expressed the Harlow hospital's "profound regrets" for shortcomings in the care given to the boy and his mother in October 2002.

The youngster, whose identity was protected on the order of a High Court judge because of his extreme vulnerability, was effectively born lifeless and cannot walk or talk.

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

The court was told he has to be fed through a tube inserted into his stomach and will be dependant on 24-hour care for the rest of his life.

His legal team accused the hospital of a series of blunders in monitoring the mother's labour, negligently delaying the delivery and failing to call a specialist obstetrician until it was too late.

The NHS Trust has now agreed to pay a £1.35m lump sum to the boy's family. They will also receive index-linked and tax-free payments of £160,000-a-year to cover the enormous costs of his care.

The payout includes £220,000 for his pain, suffering and loss of amenity.

James Badenoch QC, representing the family, told Mr Justice Eady the mother's pregnancy had been complicated by high blood pressure and a possible infection.

A decision was made to induce delivery but only intermittent monitoring was set up. As a result, signs of acute foetal distress were missed.

Mr Badenoch said that if the signs of the "impending disaster" had been spotted as they should have been, an obstetrician would have been called to the bedside and the baby would have been delivered half-an-hour earlier.

Inquest into deaths of soldiers killed by air strike error resumes

An inquest into the deaths of three British soldiers - one of them Private Robert Foster from Harlow, pictured above - who died in Afghanistan when a US jet fighter dropped a bomb on their position by mistake resumed this week with the coroner being told their families wanted "total transparency" from the Ministry of Defence over what happened.

Council rapped over home repair delays

A COUNCIL tenant is to receive £4,500 compensation after her teenage daughter's bedroom was left in a state of disrepair for 18 months.

A leak in the ceiling meant the 17-year-old girl was forced to share a bed with her mother, sleep on the sofa or stay with friend.

Local Government Ombudsman Tony Redmond criticised the council for long delays in repairing the leak and said it had been guilty of maladministration.

In a report published today (Thursday), Mr Redmond said the woman – whose identity has been protected – had suffered “considerable inconvenience, frustration and distress” because of the delays.

The problems, which happened while the tenant's daughter was in her final year at college, had been a cause of friction in the family, he said.

The ceiling in the bedroom had become unstable after a leak was discovered in the property's loft in April 2008 and the tenant was advised not to use the room until it was repaired.

But both contractor Kier Harlow's insurance company and Harlow Council denied liability for the damage. As a result, the work was not completed despite a complaint and a letter written by MP

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsexnews.co.uk

Bill Rammell to the council.

Last July the tenant contacted the ombudsman who, following an investigation, ruled the council delayed unreasonably in carrying out the repairs.

He also said it had failed to keep the tenant informed, did not deal with her complaint, did not cover the work of an officer on long-term sick leave or fulfil its promises.

Mr Redmond said even after the officer had returned from leave there was no sense of urgency from the council in dealing with this matter.

He welcomed procedural improvements introduced by the council following his investigation. These include a single point of contact and more staff to deal with insurance enquiries.

Graham Branchett, Harlow Council's strategic director, said both the council and Kier Harlow had apologised and confirmed the tenant would receive the full £4,500 compensation recommended by Mr Redmond.

He added: “The council recognises that there have been failings in this case. The ombudsman considers the action which the council has taken as providing a satisfactory remedy for the complaint.”

Family stranded off coast of Africa by airspace ban

A HARLOW family on holiday in Cape Verde off the African coast have been stranded in their resort after the fallout from the Icelandic volcano eruption scuppered their plans to return home.

Dameon Tasker (38), his wife Lucy and their 20-month-old son have been caught up in the chaos after all flights in UK airspace were halted because of fears that the cloud of ash spewed out by the volcano could be a danger to aircraft.

Mr Tasker, who works as a pharmacy technician at Princess Alexandra Hospital, told the Star: “My first reaction when we found out about the situation was that we were unable to comprehend the magnitude of the problem.

“It was not until we heard the flights had started to be cancelled that we really became aware about how this would affect us.”

He added: “We are very fortunate in the fact that Thomson Holidays have been excellent. We have been able to stay in our current hotel free of charge for the duration.”

With no official information about flights or Government rescue plans coming in to the remote island, Mr Tasker has had to rely on broadcasts from the BBC World Service to keep him up to date.

“We have had no

DEFENCE Secretary Bob Ainsworth said it was right that a Royal Navy warship was used to bring home Brits stranded abroad.

Speaking to the Star during a visit to Harlow on Tuesday, Mr Ainsworth said: “If people have loved ones trapped abroad and the Royal Navy wasn't trying to make a contribution, that would be wrong.”

He said around 300 stranded Brits picked up by HMS Albion in Santander, northern Spain, were facing a 30-hour journey on the warship along with troops returning from Afghanistan.

He said if Brits stuck abroad can make it to the ports in northern France, the Government would make sure they got home.

Mr Ainsworth was in town to support the election campaign of Labour candidate Bill Rammell.

information from the Government at all and the holiday company have very little to give us. Any information we have received is from the BBC World Service,” he said.

Despite the situation, spirits are still high in the Tasker camp. “However, we are looking forward to coming home,” said Mr Tasker. “It just would be nice to know when we can.”

PAH payout to boy born with severe disabilities

Had that happened, he would have been delivered without permanent brain damage, which was consistent with around 10 minutes of near-total asphyxia. “It should have been avoided and that is the tragedy of this case”, said Mr Badenoch.

Despite his severe disabilities, the boy was described by Mr Badenoch as “a very rewarding little chap with a lovely smile”.

He said the genuine quality of life he enjoys was largely due to the absolute devotion of his parents, and all those involved in the case had the greatest possible admiration for the couple.

Although some experts have said that the boy is unlikely to live beyond his teens, the barrister said his parents are convinced he will prove the predictions wrong.

Mr Neil Block QC, representing the PAH NHS Trust, said liability for the seven-year-old's disabilities remained in dispute but he apologised to the boy and his family and said it was a matter of profound regret that he and his mother did not receive the care they should have done.

Also expressing his admiration for the boy's parents, he said: “It is humbling to be in the presence of parents who have given so much”.

While recognising that no amount of money could put matters right, Mr Block said the settlement would at least give the family financial security and lift money worries from their shoulders.

The judge said he had no hesitation in approving the settlement and gave the boy and his family the court's best wishes for the future.

Race night to help buy Rae a wheelchair

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE organisers of a fundraising night in aid of a Harlow tot who suffers from Spinal Muscular Atrophy are appealing for donations of raffle prizes.

Rae White (2), of Broadfields, has curvature of the spine and deformities of the hands, feet and chest which prevent her from walking or standing.

All proceeds from a race night at Harlow Greyhound Stadium on May 8 will go to the Rae of Sunshine project which was set up to purchase an electric wheelchair costing £20,000.

Rae's mum, Tanya, said the new wheelchair would be life-changing for her daughter. "It will allow Rae to be a normal child of her age. She will be so much more independent and the seating goes down to floor level so she can play with other children," she said.

The fundraiser is being organised by four members of staff at Barclays Bank and the Rotary Club of Harlow.

Susan Bright, from Barclays, said: "There will be a children's corner to keep youngsters entertained on the night and a grand raffle will also be taking place with some fabulous prizes from local businesses on offer."

These include £100-worth of dining vouchers for Zenz Restaurant in Old Harlow.

Money raised on the evening will be matched £-for-£ through the Barclays in the Community Fund.

Any business or individual willing to donate a prize to the raffle or you sponsor a race (minimum donation £100) should contact Susan on 07841 391268 or email susan.pugh@talk21.com.

Meanwhile, Rae's uncle Calvin Keighley (41) is cycling 300 miles from London to Paris on the May 26 for the cause.

He has already lost two stone since starting in training in January.

Rae's dad, Mark White, was killed in 2008 following a row about a taxi outside a nightclub in Harlow town centre.

Runners ready to take on marathon challenge

IT'S that time of year again when runners of all shapes and sizes will be going through their final preparations for Sunday's Virgin London Marathon.

For Gavin Brett, of Jocelyns, Old Harlow, it will be his second marathon in less than a month.

He has just completed the Aalborg Brutal Marathon, one of the world's toughest marathons, in Denmark in a time of 3h47m.

Gavin will be raising money for the Sarah Matheson Trust, a charity which helps people whose lives are affected by a neurological movement disorder called Multiple System Atrophy.

"I'm running the marathon in memory of my mum Paula, who we lost just over a year ago after a long and courageous battle with MSA," he said.

To sponsor Gavin, visit www.justgiving.com/gavin-brett.

Meanwhile, husband and wife team Twiz and Lisa Saunders will be running the marathon in aid of St Clare Hospice where they are both volunteers.

Lisa (41), of Mallards Rise,

GAVIN BRETT

Harlow, picked up a foot injury four weeks ago but has been helped by physiotherapist and Paralympian Noel Thatcher and massage therapist Tommy Yamaguchi.

"I was initially told to defer my entry into the marathon and I thought 'you must be joking,'" she said.

Pet store workshops on animal adoption

A PET superstore in Harlow has been raising cash for its charity Support Adoption For Pets.

Pets at Home, in Edinburgh Way, has been holding pet adoption workshops designed to increase both awareness of pet adoption and knowledge of how to care for animals looking for a new home.

Store manager James Byrne said: "It has given us a chance to raise awareness of pet adoption and raise money for Support Adoption For Pets at the same time."

"All sorts of activities have been taking place for customers with great prizes to be won, as well as the workshops where people can meet the pets looking for a second chance of happiness in a loving home."

Raffle tickets are on sale at the store with a prize of free pet food.

Mobile centre offers advice on cancer

A TOTAL of 69 people visited the Macmillan mobile information centre when it came to Harlow.

Information specialists provided visitors with advice and support about various aspects of cancer

Spokeswoman Amy Sherman said: "We always get a wide variety of people visiting the centre, many of whom wouldn't seek out help if they hadn't seen us on their high street."

"Many simply needed information about cancer or services that could help them. Even if they weren't affected by cancer, some just had a question or worry they wanted to drop in and ask about."

'Runaway' bus crashes into carriageway barrier

BUS company Arriva has launched an internal investigation after one of its vehicles apparently rolled across a dual carriageway before crashing into a central reservation barrier.

Harlow firefighters returning to their station in Fourth Avenue from a multi-agency exercise on the M25 discovered the empty bus straddled across both lanes of the road in the early hours of Sunday morning.

It appeared that the stationary single-decker vehicle had rolled out on the carriageway from its parking space in the nearby Arriva depot.

The fire crews alerted police who cordoned off the road and eventually managed to contact staff at the depot.

The damaged bus was returned to its space by 4am.

Police have confirmed they will not be taking any further action but the company is investigating what happened.

Police use court order to thwart illegal car cruise

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

ALMOST 500 car enthusiasts defied an injunction prohibiting them from attending an unauthorised car cruise in a Harlow retail park on Saturday.

As reported in last week's Star, Harlow Council was granted a court injunction to stop the illegal event – which had been advertised on social networking website Facebook – from taking place.

But even though the authority posted messages on the group's webpage warning members to stay away from The Oaks retail park, more than 400 defiant motorists turned up, resulting in a number of complaints of noise nuisance and anti-social behaviour.

Police who attended the scene used powers granted under the terms of the injunction to disperse them, issuing 185 enforcement notices and arresting one person for theft of a vehicle.

Angry enthusiasts flooded the Star's website with comments after the publication of last week's report on the injunction.

Reader Stuart Smart wrote: "The real car cruise people who spend thousands of pounds on their vehicles and want to show them off are now being classed as scum."

"I wish we could organise a legal cruise with police presence compulsory as a real car cruiser will not want to get into trouble."

Another, Naomi Ponting, said: "The majority of us go there to walk around and admire each others' cars. I wish the police would just work with us rather than against us. It's about mutual respect!"

But Chief Superintendent Simon Williams told the Star that unlicensed car cruises presented a "significant danger" because of the irresponsible acts of some drivers.

"The neighbouring communities suffer from anti-social behaviour in the shape of loud music, engines revving and general noise related to car cruises which are unacceptable," he added.

The court order will remain valid until April 13 next year, prohibiting any similar events from taking place within Harlow until that date.

'Mum' who went to hospital maternity for a water birth

A MOTHER duck picked the right place to produce 10 babies - the maternity unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital! And although it is not the first time she has decided to have her offspring there, it is her largest brood yet.

Ann Felstead, ward clerk for Samson Ward, said: "The hospital grounds are a popular place for ducks to deliver their young, but we have never seen this many babies before. It is lovely to see the ducklings following their proud mum around."

Staff in the department have been putting out water and food out for the new family and the ducklings appear to be enjoying learning to swim in the water bowl.

Ann added: "We have called the RSPCA for advice, although for now mum and her babies seem quite happy in their new home."

Man detained by police after threatening to jump from crane

PART of Harlow came to a virtual standstill on Saturday when a man climbed to the top of a crane and apparently threatened to throw himself off.

The areas around the former Brays Grove School site, in Traces Road, were cordoned off while police and fire crews attempted to talk the 53-year-old man down to safety.

The incident, which was reported at 3.30pm, caused jams on the surrounding road network as diverted traffic became gridlocked in the Potter Street area.

Police officers eventually succeeded in persuading the man to climb down after almost three hours.

He was immediately detained under the Mental Health Act.

Televised debate brings renewed hope for Lib Dem candidate

HARLOW'S Liberal Democrat Parliamentary hopeful admitted this week he was "gobsmacked" by the public response to the first of three televised debates between the party leaders.

Lib Dem leader Nick Clegg was judged by many to have won last Thursday's live debate, causing the party to surge upwards in the polls.

Local candidate David White said the party's appeal to voters was not just a novelty as manifesto promises such as a £10,000 tax allowance had proved a hit.

"I have been out canvassing and had the most positive response I have had in 10 years," he said. "I was gobsmacked."

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Mr White said the party could now be on track win its biggest share of the public vote since the 1980s.

"I think we'll see Labour and the Tories pull out every dirty trick in the book against us, like saying that a vote for us is a wasted vote," he said.

"That's the politics of fear. They want to scare voters into voting for them but at the moment people are saying they want genuine change and they're not scared."

Conservative candidate Robert

Halfon claimed he had only met one Lib Dem voter on the campaign trail so far. "A lot of people said that Clegg did well but that David Cameron well too," he said.

"No one is saying that they are going to vote for one or the other because of the debate. They are going to vote for the party that is going to make their lives better.

"People know that with a hung parliament you get a mish-mash of everything and not a strong Government that can act decisively in an economic crisis."

Labour candidate Bill Rammell agreed that Mr Clegg performed well but insisted the race to become Harlow's next MP remained a straightforward choice between himself and Mr Halfon.

"The debate has brought the campaign to life," he said. "Nick Clegg did well and was good on style, Gordon Brown was robust on policy and Cameron was exposed as big on spin but short on substance.

"The debate doesn't alter the fact that in Harlow it is a two-horse race and to vote for anyone but Labour risks letting the Tories in. With the vote so close between Labour and Tory last time that is clear."

Parties in battle for council seats

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WITH the headlines dominated by next month's General Election, it is easy to forget voters in Harlow will be faced with another tough decision on May 6 – which party is best equipped to run the town.

Seats in each of the town's 11 wards will be contested in a battle which promises to be every bit as dramatic as the national poll.

The Conservatives swept to power last year and currently hold 19 of the 33 seats. The Liberal Democrats have eight and Labour six.

Of the 11 seats up for grabs, six are held by the Tories, three by the Lib Dems and two by Labour.

Conservative group leader Andrew Johnson said this week: "We are looking forward to building on our achievements of the past two years, particularly the council tax freeze, bringing a new university campus to Harlow and regenerating the town centre."

Long-standing Tory councillors Tony Hall, Joshua Jolles, Mike Garnett and Nick Churchill are seeking re-election, while relative newcomers David Carter and former Liberal Democrat councillor Linda Pailing – who joined the Tories earlier this year – are also standing.

Mrs Pailing, who currently represents the Netteswell ward, will be standing for election in Little Parndon & Hare Street where she will be hoping to oust former Labour group leader Tony Durcan.

Labour will also be defending Harlow Common, where sitting councillor Maggie Hulcoop faces a challenge from Conservative, Liberal Democrat and Independent candidates.

Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson said: "The Labour group is committed to restoring the Harlow services that have been destroyed by the Tory administration.

"This has been a year when council tenants' rents have been hiked up and the Active Retired scheme and future of the crematorium have been savaged by the Tories in moves often supported by the Liberal Democrats.

"Quite simply, the Labour group wants to make Harlow a town to be proud of once again."

The Lib Dems will be hoping to build on their current position as the second largest party on the authority. The key battle for the party will be retaining their seat in Bush Fair following the resignation of Eleanor Macy, with newcomer Paulette Alexander attempting to keep all three of the ward's seats in Lib Dem hands.

Lib Dem group leader Chris Millington said: "The Conservative council has stopped listening and, with its succession of stealth taxes, is making the same mistakes Labour did in the 1990s.

"A Liberal Democrat council would abolish neighbourhood car parking charges and restore free green waste and heavy squad collections. We would support retention of council housing, restore funding to the popular Town Show, bring back the estate clean ups, put money back into Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice and review the provision of wheelie bins."

CHANCELLOR Alistair Darling visited Harlow to listen to the views of a group of floating voters.

An invited audience of about 20 people quizzed the Labour politician for more than an hour.

Afterwards, Mr Darling told the Star: "It was very, very informative. Harlow is a very marginal constituency, in fact one of the most finely balanced constituencies in the whole country, so it's important to do everything we can to win support.

"My message is that we have been through one of the deepest recessions the world has ever seen, we are now beginning to see the economy grow. To wreck the economy now, which the Tories would do, would be disastrous."

Bill Rammell was also at the meeting, which was held at the home of local councillor Edna Stevens last Wednesday.

SHADOW Home Secretary Chris Grayling was given a tour of the Occasio House young people's accommodation project during a visit to Harlow on Thursday.

Mr Grayling, who was accompanied by Conservative Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon, met service managers and tenants before being shown a typical room at the award-winning residential foyer in Playhouse Square.

Mr Grayling said a Conservative government would encourage the growth of similar charitable organisations by stripping away "unnecessary" layers of bureaucracy.

"We have talked about the need to empower charitable organisations to provide them with the support they need and set them free from some of the bureaucracy that holds them back," he said. "I think the charitable sector can make a huge difference in dealing with the social problems we face in the UK and this is a great example."

Mr Grayling and Mr Halfon are pictured with Chris Woodhead, director of care and support at East Potential, and foyer manager Judith Lathey.

In the second of three articles in the run-up to the General Election on May 6, the Star gives Harlow's general election candidates the chance to present their parties' policies on certain key issues. This week: foreign affairs

BILL RAMMELL
Labour

To secure our interests we have to work in co-operation with other countries.

We're in Afghanistan with 43 nations to stop the Taliban returning and re-establishing terrorist training camps targeting this country and others.

When visiting Afghanistan, I've seen the heroic, dedicated work of our Armed Forces. We equip them better than ever and I want them to come home as soon as it is safe to.

We're training and developing the Afghan forces and begin the handover of responsibility to the Afghans later this year.

We must continue to reduce nuclear weapons across the world. Britain under Labour has led the way reducing our nuclear weapons by 75 per cent. We need further reductions and must use diplomacy and sanctions to stop new nations such as Iran and North Korea going nuclear. Nuclear weapons could destroy our civilisation; we must strive for a world free of nuclear weapons.

It is both morally right and practically in our interests to support the poorest on this planet. Under Labour we've doubled our aid budget after the savage cuts of the Tory years.

In Europe we need greater openness and we need countries to work together to tackle crime and illegal immigration. Leaving Europe would lose us three million British jobs.

We need international co-operation to tackle climate change which many Conservatives deny exists. And we need British leadership internationally. Without the co-ordinated response to the banking crisis which Gordon Brown led, we would have seen a 1930s-style crash.

ROB HALFON
Conservative

Gordon Brown's failure in foreign affairs has hurt our Armed Forces and our country.

The Labour Government sent our brave soldiers to war with ill-defined purpose and lack of strategy. Many feel misled about the reasons for invading Iraq. Our army was put to battle without proper equipment and have arrived home lacking the welfare support they need.

In Harlow, residents ask why it was necessary for Gordon Brown and Bill Rammell to close our local Territorial Army centre because of so-called 'cost savings' when the Government managed to give MoD bureaucrats over £47m in bonuses. Just a fraction of this money would have kept our TA open.

We desperately need to rebuild trust with our Armed Forces through:

- a strategic review to determine what our Armed Forces need so that our brave soldiers always have the proper equipment;
- doubling the operational bonus for frontline soldiers;
- establishing a new welfare service to look after veterans; and
- higher education scholarships for the children of Armed Forces personnel killed on active duty.

On Europe we need radical change. The Conservatives will act to get our powers back from Brussels with a tough renegotiation to get our powers back on criminal justice and social and employment laws, a guaranteed referendum on any new EU Treaty and a UK Sovereignty Bill so that British Law is paramount.

Restoring trust, giving pride back to Britain, ensuring we get our powers back from Brussels – Conservatives will provide the change Britain needs in foreign affairs.

DAVID WHITE
Liberal Democrat

The world has changed dramatically in the last 20 years. Gone are the old certainties to be replaced by a new, more worrying landscape of terrorism, climate change and financial chaos.

Now more than ever we have problems that we cannot solve alone which is why the Liberal Democrats are committed to looking outwards, securing Britain's future with more global action.

The Liberal Democrats would work through the European Union to tackle climate change. Only by grouping together can we have a realistic chance of getting the multilateral action we need to keep our planet healthy.

We recognise that Europe has problems but we are committed to work hard to fix these issues rather than making Britain a country forever whining from the sidelines. We will use Europe to tackle heinous crimes like international paedophilia and terrorism in ways no single country ever could.

We have shown long-term thinking in Iraq where we pointed out the failing when other parties blindly nodded their heads. Now we will bring that leadership to our Armed Forces, stopping wasteful programmes like the Trident like-for-like replacement and tranche 3B of the Eurofighter to allow us to pay for the equipment our brave troops need to fight modern conflicts.

Overall the Liberal Democrats are committed to freedom, justice and prosperity, not just for the people of Britain but for the people of the world. That is why we will meet Britain's obligations to pay 0.7 per cent of GNI to third world countries and we will work hard to stop banks from transferring the funds of corruption.

JOHN CROFT
UKIP

Great Britain must be a global player with a global destiny, free from European Union interference and in full charge of her independent destiny.

To ensure this happens we must leave the European Union immediately, since Brussels has imposed its own foreign minister and council, whose influence has diminished our global power and reduced the Houses of Parliament to the status of a county council.

Britain's future must be re-centred on the Commonwealth and the 'Anglosphere', where United Kingdom Independence Party proposes a Commonwealth Free Trade Area and would re-establish its own seat on the World Trade Organisation.

Together with this, UKIP would propose involvement with both European Free Trade Association/North American Free Trade Association to foster our trade, foreign relations and influence in our drive to self-reliance and sovereignty.

UKIP believes in trade not aid to tackle global poverty whilst defending fiercely our British Overseas Territories, Gibraltar and the Falkland Islands.

UKIP wants to be rid of the evil Mugabe regime and calls for the release of Aung San Suu Kyi from the Burmese military dictatorship.

We view with concern the dangerous military theocracy in Iran and aspects of China's authoritarianism.

In a nutshell, UKIP wants democracy, free markets and personal liberty as the watchwords for our global mission.

EDDY BUTLER
BNP

One of the British National Party's main campaign themes in this year's General Election is 'Support our Troops – Bring our Boys Home'.

We are totally opposed to Britain's participation in the unwinnable war in Afghanistan which is none of Britain's business. It is of no concern of Britain who runs Afghanistan, whether it is the Taliban or anyone else. It is not worth the life of a single British soldier. It is a matter for the Afghans and them alone.

The Taliban were never a terrorist threat to Britain. Our terrorists have been home-grown Islamists who were, if anything, encouraged in their militancy by Britain's involvement in Afghanistan and earlier in the illegal war in Iraq.

The BNP is totally against Britain's involvement in foreign wars where Britain's vital interests are not at stake. The BNP's international stance is one of armed neutrality – with links fostered with the old Commonwealth countries such as Australia, Canada and New Zealand.

We would seek trade agreement with any country where favourable terms to Britain can be established. Britain would not act as the United States' pet poodle.

The BNP is opposed to Britain's continued membership of the European Union and would withdraw and establish a similar relationship to our European neighbours and trading partners as enjoyed by Norway and Switzerland.

The BNP would vigorously defend our interests around the globe, including the Falkland Islands and Gibraltar. We would also protect our citizens from attack and molestation in any quarter of the world.

Sixth candidate enters election fray

A SIXTH candidate has entered the race to become Harlow's next MP. Oluyemi Adeeko represents The Christian Party which states its primary purpose as "proclaiming the Lordship of Christ" and promises to fight to re-establish traditional family values and outlaw abortion.

Majority of public support the ban on blood sports

SIR, I write to express my horror that Conservative candidate Robert Halfon wishes to remove the ban on blood sports, along with the majority of other Conservative candidates and David Cameron.

This ban, which finally became law five years ago due to huge public demand, is the only thing preventing thousands of animals from being chased to the brink of exhaustion until they can run no more. Then they are forced into rivers or roads where they are killed, drowned or ripped apart.

It is not just wild animals either. A large number of domestic animals suffer, including pets that accidentally get in the way of a frenzied pack of hounds.

Mr Halfon, who says he will vote for the removal of the ban, then goes on to say that he is fully supportive of helping animals! Does he think that ripping an animal to pieces is helping it? I can only conclude this is a very mixed up man whose own thoughts are totally contradictory. Is this the type of person we want as our MP?

This ban was a long time coming due to the Conservative Party's delaying tactics. An independent survey was ordered and carried out over many months. The results concluded that the extent of suffering to animals was extortionate and unacceptable. It did not control the myth of fox population either.

Mr Halfon says that the ban does not work. It works for me, works for the animals and works for 85 per cent of the public. The only people it doesn't work for is the minority who get enjoyment out of killing a live animal and watching it suffer.

Surely Mr Halfon should vote on our behalf, not his own. The vast majority of the public does not want barbaric blood sports brought back into our civilised society.

No place in Parliament for party politicians

SIR, If Broken Britain is really to be fixed, Parliament has to be changed. The House of Lords needs to be reviewed but the priority by far is the House of Commons.

What is needed are Members of Parliament who truly represent us – their constituents – and not themselves or their parties.

The Commons needs to be cleared of the motley crew of political careerists who are increasingly dominating it. They are not true constituency representatives. They are parachuted by their parties into constituencies they do not reside in, have done nothing for and often have little real interest in other than as stepping stones to their own advancement. They consequently often act against the needs and best interests of the people they are supposed to represent.

What is needed are independently minded Members of Parliament who truly represent the needs and interests of their constituents. They should be local champions who have clearly demonstrated their qualifications previously by a long record of campaigning substantially and unstintingly on their behalf.

They should come from their constituencies and have resided in them for many years before standing for them, the only sure way of understanding local needs and interests. They should also have wide experience of the real world so they can connect properly with the people they wish to represent.

Independent candidates would be best. They can rely purely on their common sense, experience and knowledge to initiate or support appropriate policies and measures, without having to defer to party dogma. And before anyone questions what they would be able to achieve on their own, they should ask themselves what the party politicians and their parties have achieved for us. It is they who got us into the mess. As for funding, the Obama method could be included with money raised via the web.

MPs caught up in expenses scandal should stand down

SIR, I am disgusted that Bill Rammell is standing again as MP for Harlow. He should follow the example of many other MPs who, as a result of the expenses scandal, are not seeking re-election.

He claimed £400 a month for food on top of his salary

Popular facilities were all features of Harlow under a Labour council

SIR, Councillor David Carter is wrong (Letters, April 15). The residents of Waltham Abbey would not complain they do not have a museum like we have in Harlow.

The reason they would not complain is that they actually have a much better museum in Waltham Abbey than we have in Harlow.

The other facilities he mentions – paddling pools, Pets Corner, the nature reserve and local theatre – were all features of Harlow under a Labour-run council.

There were many more facilities provided for local people by Harlow's Labour council which were subsequently ditched by Conservative and Liberal Democrat councillors.

Harlow's Labour council also provided the best pensioners' bus travel scheme in the country in its time, and present-day pensioners would do well to remember that it was the Labour Government, with Gordon Brown as chancellor, who introduced the free bus passes they currently enjoy.

How safe would these be with a Conservative Government?

C. Gray
Park Fields, Harlow

SIR, I feel that I must reply to the letter from Councillor David Carter in the Star.

He imagines that people in smaller towns and areas around are upset because they do not have the leisure facilities that we have in Harlow, bearing in mind that it has a far larger population and has a far bigger pocket in money terms.

He is not sorry for them. The reference is only a smokescreen for what his intentions are for the older generation of Harlow. Like the Tory leader – with the same initials – he fails to clarify his real intentions

Of course Mr Carter is generous; he gives us a chance to make our own suggestions for what we would like to cut! I think we can send him to Coventry or maybe throw him in to one of the paddling pools he mentioned. I joke, but he isn't joking.

If he goes ahead with his intention he will leave many OAPs prisoners in their homes but he won't care.

I hope old age catches up with him quickly and he will then know the feeling, but no doubt he will have a massive pension to see him through.

T. Jordan
Whitewatts, Harlow

SIR, Once again Conservative councillor David Carter must have another moan about bus passes, and the fact they cost the council taxpayer 19p in every pound the council spends.

Are the Conservatives starting to brainwash us just in case they get into power next month? Perhaps they will cut the bus passes to save even more money.

But not a lot has been said about public money being spent on party political conferences, £1,000 claimed on expenses or £500 for new clothes for a councillor.

So come on, Conservatives, give us oldies a break because we can break you on May 6.

Robin J Simms
Shawbridge, Harlow

and ministerial allowances when many people in Harlow have only £400 a month to live on. Would he have told us this without the media coverage? The office of MP should not go to someone of such poor principles. Mr Rammell and all the other MPs of whatever party who cannot tell right from wrong and who are standing again should be kicked out by the very public they have betrayed.

David Carter
Greygoose Park, Harlow

Councillor's claims of litter strewn streets are rubbish

SIR, Further to councillor Nick Macy's letter of April 15, I worked for Harlow Council for 13 years until retirement in 2005 and I bitterly resent his assertion that I and people I worked with were lazy and incompetent.

We worked hard to clear any litter and dumped rubbish in the town. His comment that there were piles of rubbish on street corners is totally untrue.

Any politician who makes false statements to gain political advantage is attacking not only their opposition but democracy itself. A party that gains power by such means is not fit to hold office.

Thanks to all who swam

SIR, I am writing to express a very big thank you to all the local people who took part in the Alzheimer's Society sponsored swim on February 27.

All the young people were absolutely magnificent. Many exceeded their expectations and swam many more lengths than they thought possible. They all looked so proud of themselves and rightly so.

We anticipate that the money raised will exceed £3,000, which will be spent on providing services for people with dementia and their carers in Harlow.

I would also like to express our appreciation of the support given by parents and the teachers at William Martin School whose presence was invaluable as they encouraged the young people to achieve their best.

No need for runway

SIR, One good thing about the Icelandic volcano has been all the peace and quiet overhead. All those Stansted flights have stopped flying over my garden!

Anyway, I'm glad to see the Conservatives will scrap plans for a second runway at Stansted. We don't need one and we don't want one.

I'm sure Labour will promise us the earth now no-one will vote for them, but they should have listened to local people in the first place!

Number's up for bingo

SIR, May I enquire why, after many years, the Tuesday evening bingo session at Potter Street Community Centre has suddenly been cancelled without any explanation?

It has been common knowledge among the players that they were not welcome at the centre but the bingo evening was a lifeline to the many elderly players. At least one is over 90 and to most it was the only pleasure of the week.

If making a profit was the reason, I for one would like to know when the community centre became a commercial centre.

Swim pool used as a movie set

BACK in 1963 a film called The Yellow Teddybears was filmed partly in Harlow.

With themes of teenage sex, pregnancy and abortion, the film was given an 'X' rating by censors and was described by one critic as a "silly, sordid and ludicrous cautionary tale".

Some scenes were filmed at Harlow's newly opened swimming pool and girls from a local school acted as extras.

However, the 'X' rating prevented those who took part from going to the cinema to see it on its release.

Not much is known about the filming in the town and local historian Ron Bill is keen to find out more. He is putting the finishing touches on a book about the history of Harlow Council and needs to know which school provided the extras.

If you can help, get in touch with Ron on (01279) 434997.

Dry slope skiers enjoy real thing

YOU may be forgiven for thinking this picture was taken on the slopes of some trendy ski resort in Switzerland or Austria, but you would be wrong.

In fact it was taken at Harlow's own artificial ski slope after it was covered in a blanket of snow, giving skiers an extra thrill. For a long time the slope which stood on the Sportcentre site near the Burnt Mill roundabout – now the Gateway housing development – was one of the town's most recognisable landmarks. But then, in 1993, it made headlines for the wrong reasons. In January of that year the Star reported a slippage at the slope which prompted fears about the safety of the facility.

The mound on which the slope was built slipped after heavy rains. Council leader Mike Danvers said at the time: "I'm most worried about this particular slippage and the whole matter needs to be checked up very thoroughly."

He suggested vegetation should be planted on the mound to make it more solid.

It was eventually closed and dismantled to make way for the new housing development.

Our picture was provided by local historian Ron Bill, but if you have memories of the slope or any pictures, send them to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or drop us an email to daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

NOSTALGIA UPDATE: Harlow Carnival

TWO readers have solved a conundrum we set two weeks ago.

You may remember the two photos of a 'mystery' event sent in by Harlow resident Norma Nugent. They were, as we speculated, from the annual Harlow Carnival.

"I worked at BOC Medishield in the Pinnacles and staff carried the inflated head," she said. "The parade started at Bush Fair and we walked to the Town Park."

Meanwhile, Ellen Deering, of Roydon, said she was one of the people in the picture of people dressed up for the carnival's Hawaiian theme.

"We had such a fantastic time and raised loads of money [for charity]," she said.

Teens' strike threat

A revolt by 10,000 teenagers against the Youth Training Scheme's "slave labour" tactics is being planned by Harlow Young Socialists. Pupils and students could stage a walkout over "forced conscription" to the scheme.

MP Jerry tied up

Harlow MP Jerry Hayes fell for the oldest trick in the book at an employment conference in Brussels. He exchanged his silk Christian Dior number for a scruffy blue one owned by a German journalist who told him: "We're friends – we must swap!"

He's a top blower

Harlow huntsman Graham Sutton (43) is officially the best horn blower in the country. He took first place ahead of 13 others at the Horse & Hound Ball competition in Grosvenor House, London, to gain the trophy.

Council imperialism

Plans by Harlow Council to expand into Roydon have been branded "Harlow imperialism" by MP Jerry Hayes. Worried villagers fear high rates and housing on Green Belt land if the area comes under town authority control.

Attack dog saved from death row

A DOG facing a death sentence for attacking two police horses and causing their riders to be thrown to the ground has been reprieved.

A judge and two justices sitting at Chelmsford Crown Court suspended the sentence and replaced it with a contingency destruction order.

But Judge Christopher Ball attached a list of conditions and warned owner Louise Reilly (43), of Purford Green, Harlow: "Police are likely to have a lively interest in this dog and the slightest deviation from the order will have the consequences you least want."

The dog, currently being kept in kennels by police, must be muzzled and kept on a lead of no more than two metres in length when taken for a walk, not allowed within 25 metres of licensed premises and must undergo animal behaviour assessment in relation to livestock.

It must also be neutered, microchipped, tattooed and insured.

Miss Reilly was also ordered to erect a secondary front gate at her home to prevent

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

accidental escape.

Magistrates originally ordered that the dog should be kept muzzled following the incident involving the horses in October of last year.

But it was later discovered the animal had pitbull terrier characteristics and a court ordered that it should be put down.

However, Miss Reilly appealed against that decision and to support her case presented a report from animal behaviourist Dr Roger Mugford which stated the dog was not dangerous and could be exempted from destruction.

Dr Mugford said the incident leading to the court hearings had been "out of character". Furthermore, an assessment of the animal had shown it was not aggressive.

Essex Police conceded they would not press for the dog to be destroyed.

Speaking outside the court, Miss Reilly said: "I am very relieved a good dog is coming home. I shall comply with the order 110 per cent."

Student fired up for Den-style final

A STUDENT from Harlow is facing a nerve-wracking trip into the dragon's den after making it through to the finals of a university business competition.

Adedeji Osobukola, of Pytt Field, has been given the opportunity to pitch his business idea to Julie Meyer – the star of the BBC's online version of hit TV show Dragon's Den – after impressing the judges of the University of Hertfordshire's Flare challenge.

His dream is to set up a talent and lifestyle magazine that provides students with a platform to showcase their unique talents and entrepreneurial skills.

left, saw off competition from over 100 entrants to win his place in the final on April 30, where he will face competition from nine other contestants.

If successful, he stands to win cash, office space and a special consultancy to help kick-start his business plan.

Nigel Culkin, director of the centre for Innovation and Enterprise at the University of Hertfordshire, said: "Our aim is to encourage entrepreneurship as a means of stimulating innovation and enterprise across the university."

"Adedeji has shown great entrepreneurial spirit to make it through to this stage. It is now down to who can hold their nerve for the dragons' style pitches later this month."

Time is running out to join the Midnight Walk

WITH less than two months to go until the St Clare Hospice Midnight Walk, staff at Old Harlow estate agents Geoffrey Matthew Estates have been showing their support for the cause.

The firm has agreed to sponsor the Midnight Walk banners which are moving around town promoting the fundraising event and are busy recruiting more people to take part.

Matt Dixon, of Geoffrey Matthews Estates, said: "It's great to see St Clare Hospice's continuous efforts towards raising monies to care for so many people.

"I hope the walk is just as successful as last year; I'm sure it will be. So don't forget everyone, grab your trainers and have a fun night out for a good cause."

This year the organisers of the Midnight Walk, which is supported by the Star, are hoping to raise £140,000. The money will be used to care for the services provided by the Hastingwood hospice for people in West Essex and East Hertfordshire with life-limiting illnesses.

The 10k walk takes place on Saturday, June 19 and will follow the same route as the first year, starting at the Water Gardens and heading for Old Harlow before returning to the town centre.

"We're getting much closer to the event now but we're still concerned about the low registration numbers," said events fundraiser Tracy Stratford. "So many people have said to me how much they're looking forward to it and how they've started planning their fancy dress outfits for the night, but when I ask them if they've signed up yet the answer is no!

"So please get on line or get in touch for a registration form as we want to make this year's event even bigger and better. It's the hospice's 20th birthday this year and we really want to celebrate in style this June."

Copies of the report will be available for public inspection during normal office hours at the Civic Centre, The Water Gardens, Harlow, Essex for three weeks starting on 22 April 2010. Anyone is entitled to take copies of the report.

Barrier reef is a natural wonder

YOU may have seen television reports that the Great Barrier Reef has suffered serious damage after it was struck by a cargo ship which spilled tonnes of oil.

The reef, which can be seen from outer space, lies off the coast of Australia and is one of the most famous natural wonders of the world. It is made up of tiny living organisms, called coral polyps, and is more than 1,500 miles long.

The Chinese coal ship crashed into the reef off the coast of Australia on April 3. Australian officials believe it has been taking a shortcut on its way back to China when it ran aground.

The vessel was carrying 65,000 tonnes of coal when it hit the reef, tearing a 1km-long hole in the fragile coral and leaking oil into waters used as a breeding ground for seabirds and turtles.

Environment experts say that it could take between 10 and 20 years to recover from the accident.

Teams of helpers are working to clean the area and protect wildlife from the oil slick but they warned they have a huge task ahead of them.

Man treated for smoke inhalation after fire at flat

A MAN was treated for smoke inhalation after fire broke out in a ground floor flat in The Hides, Harlow, in the early hours of Tuesday.

The incident was triggered after a bed caught light. When firefighters arrived at the scene they reported the ground floor flat was heavily smokelogged.

Crews wearing breathing apparatus used a hose reel to extinguish the blaze. They also administered oxygen therapy to the occupant who was then left in the care of paramedics.

A spokesman for Essex Fire & Rescue

Service said the blaze caused significant damage to the council-owned property.

● TWO hours later, firefighters were called to a fire in a house in Berecroft, Harlow.

Firefighters wearing breathing apparatus used one hose reel to tackle the fire. There were no casualties.

Soldiers' families 'just want truth'

THE families of three soldiers who died in Afghanistan when a US fighter jet dropped a 500lb bomb on their position want the truth of what happened, an inquest heard this week.

Privates Robert Foster (19), of Great Plumtree, Harlow, Aaron McClure (19) and John Thrumble (21) were under intense fire in Helmand Province when the aircraft dropped the bomb on them instead of a Taliban position one kilometre further north.

Private McClure and Private Thrumble were killed instantly in the blast. A post mortem examination showed Private Foster died of asphyxia caused by entrapment following the explosion.

Hilary Meredith, who represents the soldiers' relatives, told the inquest at Wiltshire Coroner's Court the families wanted "total transparency" from the Ministry of Defence over the incident.

"The families are here today to support their boys who were all fatally injured in this incident," she said. "It's extremely difficult to understand how in today's modern warfare an incident like this can happen and be allowed to happen."

"There are lessons to be learnt by the MoD. There needs to be total transparency when incidents like this happen, the families need to have the truth and facts from day one."

Major Tony Borgnis, officer commanding B-Company, told the inquest the men had come under some of the heaviest fire he had experienced.

He decided to call in air support and was positioned on a corrugated rooftop on a building in Mazdurak when he witnessed the explosion just 90 metres away.

The inquest previously heard Privates McClure and Thrumble were on the roof of a compound and Private Foster was in a house firing from a window when the order to strike was given by Major Borgnis.

He said: "Obviously I knew with the size of the explosion that it was close air support that had engaged in the wrong place."

"I immediately got on the radio to confirm if they could count the men to see if there were any casualties."

He went on: "I got an immediate

Trees bring a touch of nature to town centre

AS shoppers may have already twigged, the northern part of Harlow town centre is now a greener place.

A number of wooden planters containing cherry, birch and pear saplings have been placed from West Gate to Market Square in a bid to spruce up the area.

The trees were chosen by RHS Chelsea 2009 Flower Show silver medalists Aralia Garden Design for their attractiveness, resilience and suitability to their environment.

The project is a joint initiative by Harlow Renaissance and the Town Centre Partnership with support from Harlow Council.

Andrew Bramidge, chief executive of Harlow Renaissance, said: "The project is designed to continue to brighten up and refresh the northern end of the town centre prior to the regeneration of the area."

The planters, which will be maintained and watered by local amenity contractor SWS, have irrigation reservoirs to prevent drying out in periods of extreme dry weather.

response from 6 Platoon who confirmed it had happened close to them but everyone was OK, but I could not get any response from 7 Platoon at all.

"I kept trying to find out what had happened but I knew in my heart what happened. I was hoping everyone was OK in 7 Platoon, but I knew the platoon sergeant and commander very well and they always answered my calls quickly, so I knew something was wrong."

Major Borgnis then recalled the operation to recover the bodies of the three men. "I will just paint the scene," he said. "As you can imagine it was pretty grim. We had to extract across open ground and we were still being fired upon."

When they returned to the forward operating base they realised Private Foster was not accounted for.

Major Borgnis reassembled what men he could and under complete darkness returned to locate Private Foster.

His body was discovered under more than a metre of rubble. A medic pronounced him dead at the scene.

The inquest was adjourned until yesterday (Wednesday).

All-star tribute to jazz fan Gwen

By CHRIS MOSS

HEP cats will be heading to the St John's Art and Recreation Centre in Old Harlow next Thursday for an all-star swing session celebrating the life of late jazz ambassador Gwen Main.

Lifelong jazz fan and Harlow resident Gwen, who passed away last month, was a great champion of the music and worked with local jazz drummer John Petters on his legendary Square sessions in the 1980s.

She continued to help promote and market many of his theatre concerts – many of them at the ARC – until she started to lose her hearing 10 years ago.

John told the Star: "I first met Gwen in 1983 when we got talking before a gig in The Stow snooker hall and it wasn't long before she was helping me out with organising concerts. She even let me use her spare room as an office!"

"She was a great saleswoman and a tremendously enthusiastic, warm-hearted woman who will be sorely missed."

The gig is set to be one of the jazz highlights of the year and features a cookin' line-up of musicians cherrypicked by John which would surely have delighted Gwen.

Star saxophone and clarinet wizards Pete Neighbour and Trevor Whiting are involved, while ex-Alex Welsh guitarist Jim Douglas is set to make his first appearance at the venue.

The gig will extra-special for Pete

Neighbour, one-time member of the John Petters Swing Band, as he now lives in the USA and spends most of his time working on cruise ships all over the world.

Trevor Whiting, described by John as "arguably the finest living exponent of mid-period swing saxophone in the style of Coleman Hawkins", was formerly a member of the Chris Barber band and has recently played with Kenny Ball's Jazzmen.

On piano, Martin Litton will dazzle at the Yamaha grand with his thrilling interpretation of early jazz styles, while the driving rhythm section of bass ace Keith Donald and John on drums will provide the beat.

"Gwen loved jazz and did so much to help me and other musicians get their music to as big an audience as possible," said John. "Hopefully this concert will be a fitting tribute to her memory."

The concert starts at 8pm on Thursday, April 29 at St John's ARC in Old Harlow. Tickets cost £10 and are available on the door.

Soul superstar O'Neal is Alexander the great

THE velvet tones of legendary American singer Alexander O'Neal left an audience of almost 400 spellbound at Harlow Greyhound Stadium. Last Saturday's gig saw the Mississippi-born musician belt out a stirring set of his greatest hits, including Fake, If You Were Here Tonight and UK top 10 smash Criticize.

The stadium's general manager, Chris Page, said: "The evening was a tribute to all the staff on site getting this organised and seeing it through."

"None of us really knew what to expect but we all pulled together to hopefully give our guests a night to remember!"

Dog track owner David Barclay, pictured above with O'Neal, said added: "The performance was simply amazing and when he invited the crowd onto the stage to revel in his hits Criticize and Fake the place erupted!"

The stadium is set to host a concert by soul sensations The Drifters on July 31 and is also seeking up-and-coming local bands to perform at regular gig nights. For more information, call the stadium on (01279) 426804.

Anniversary Knights promise evening of music and mirth

THE Barron Knights' 50th anniversary tour rolls into Harlow on Sunday as part of a 65-concert tour.

Since the early days of the 1960s – when they toured with both The Beatles and The Rolling Stones – the Knights have been admired for their musicianship, wit and humour.

They have completed 30 world tours, performed over 300 shows at the London Palladium, sold 11 million records and are still performing to full houses

This year's show will feature all their hits as well as songs from the soundtrack of the band's lives, which will bring back so many memories for so many folks.

The music will be interspersed with a few anecdotes because "there are many true stories that need to be heard that will certainly make the audience laugh".

Tickets for Sunday's show at the Playhouse cost £15 and are available by calling the box office on (01279) 431945.

>>what's on

Love him or loathe him, one thing's certain – he's a born showman and seeing him live is always entertaining. Performances begin at 8pm and tickets cost £18.50 from (01279) 431945.

>>FILM Lasse Hallström's deliciously dark comedy The Men Who Stare At Goats is screened at The Playhouse on Wednesday. Based on British journalist John Ronson's book of the same name, the story follows a reporter who stumbles upon what could be the story of a lifetime when he meets a band of self-proclaimed psychic soldiers. ## DATE NIGHT certificate 15 1h28m ROMANCE is dead and the lead characters of Shawn Levy's hysterical action comedy may be too before the end credits roll.

Date Night centres on a loving, married couple who have lost the spark in their relationship. Their efforts to reinvigorate the marriage take a turn for the surreal as screenwriter Josh Klausner propels these unassuming and hard-working suburbanites on a series of crazy misadventures.

Steve Carell and Tina Fey are perfectly cast as the parents trapped in a state of bland indifference, who just need several brushes with death to remind them what is important.

Phil Foster (Carell) and his wife Claire

(Fey) live in New Jersey with their children, who negate the need for an alarm clock by pile driving their parents' heads before 5am.

Every week the Fosters hire a babysitter so they can go through the ritual of date night – sitting at the same table in the same restaurant ordering the same food, all under the guise of spending quality time together.

One night Phil and Claire attempt to spice up date night by having dinner at the most exclusive new restaurant in Manhattan. They arrive without a reservation and, when another couple fails to turn up, take the vacant table.

Towards the end of the meal, thugs Armstrong (Jimmi Simpson) and Collins (Common) take Phil and Claire into an alleyway and demand the return of a flash drive which the other couple have stolen.

The Fosters' pleas of innocence fall on deaf ears and the married couple become embroiled in a life-or-death race around the city involving a violent gangster (Ray Liotta), a disgraced Mayor (William Fichtner), a plucky female cop (Taraji P Henson) and a hunky surveillance expert (Mark Wahlberg).

Date Night has huge fun at the expense of unlikely action heroes Carell and Fey. Their characters' ham-fisted efforts to escape an early grave are comically inept, including a getaway in quite possibly the world's slowest motor boat.

The supporting cast has a ball, notably Wahlberg who pokes gentle fun at his image as a dunderhead with a rippling six pack.

Levy maintains a jaunty pace and offsets the lunacy with moments of heartfelt emotion to ensure this is a date night to remember.

Cosy comedy is no blast from the past

CEMETERY JUNCTION certificate 15 1h34m

WITH the award-winning television series The Office and Extras, the creative partnership of Ricky Gervais and Stephen Merchant re-sharpened the cutting edge of British comedy. They revelled in the foibles of their misshapen characters and watched with glee as their socially-inept creations weathered scorn for many toe-curling indiscretions.

The good friends have steadfastly resisted pleas to transplant their talents to the big screen but finally relent with this disappointingly cosy portrait of 1970s small-town angst.

Set to a soundtrack of T Rex, Led Zeppelin, Mott The Hoople and The Osmonds, this predictable rites-of-passage yarn affectionately recreates the fashions of a bygone era as it jives lazily through a linear narrative of selfishness and redemption.

LAST CHANCE TO BUY AT FIFTH AVENUE IN HARLOW WITH GOVERNMENT ASSISTED SCHEME

“YOU need a huge deposit if you're buying for the first time,” is a familiar complaint from new homebuyers who are currently trying to get onto the property ladder. However, help is at hand for anyone who is looking to buy their first home in Harlow before the end of September thanks to Barratt's HomeBuy Direct Scheme at Fifth Avenue.

Through HomeBuy Direct, first-time buyers in Harlow can purchase 100 per cent of a new home at Barratt's Fifth Avenue development whilst only paying 70 per cent of the price upfront. Negating the need for such a large deposit, the remaining 30 per cent is funded by a joint equity loan from Barratt and the Government's Homes and Communities Agency. The outstanding equity can then be redeemed in installments over a ten year period or when the property is sold; whichever comes sooner.

Chris Scarborough, sales director for Barratt North London comments: “HomeBuy Direct is the ideal solution for first-time buyers in Harlow who are looking to get onto the property ladder now but may not have the savings at hand for the size of deposit now required. With mortgage lending for first-time buyers becoming less affordable, new homeowners in the area should look to make the most of the opportunities that have been made available by the Government in Harlow, before the scheme comes to an end on 30th September.”

“For many young people in Harlow this could make the difference between having to continue renting and being able to move into their own home now”

Barratt North London will match pound for pound the deposits saved by First Time Buyers up to five per cent of the purchase price of selected new homes at its Fifth Avenue development in Harlow. Furthermore most of the properties at Fifth Avenue can be bought without having to pay stamp duty, thanks to the recent threshold extension.

Ideal for first-time buyers, Fifth Avenue is about to launch a long-awaited new range of apartments available with HomeBuy Direct. With prices starting from £135,000 for a 1 bedroom and £160,000 for a 2 bedroom, this means that new homeowners can get onto the property ladder with a deposit as low as £4,725.

For those looking for a slightly bigger home, Fifth Avenue also has 2 three-bedroom homes available with HomeBuy Direct. A popular choice for young families, these homes are currently on the market at £260,000.

“For many young people in Harlow this could make the difference between having to continue renting and being able to move into their own home now”.

For added peace of mind buyers at Fifth Avenue can also benefit from Barratt North London's new five year guarantee on fixtures and fittings in their new home at the time of purchase.

The sales & marketing suite and show homes in Gladwin Way, Harlow, CM20 1AS are open seven days a week, 10am to 6pm, telephone 01279 641168. Information on Fifth Avenue can be found at: www.barratthomes.co.uk/fifthavenue

Lightweight Boxster packs a punch

The Boxster Spyder is set to rekindle enthusiasts' spirit as Porsche goes back to basics. MATT JOY takes it out for a spin.

YOU can't beat a bit of pedigree when it comes to selling a car to enthusiasts.

It's a tool that all the established performance marques use to their advantage because a keen buyer knows the history – and this latest model could be the car that rekindles that spirit once again.

Porsche has a back catalogue that is positively groaning with great cars and evocative tags, and they've just pulled the wraps off another in the form of the Boxster Spyder.

The original 550 Spyder was a pure racing car of the 1950s and majored on the original recipe of modest power but with a bantamweight build, checking in at only 550kg. The Boxster Spyder follows a similar theme: take one Boxster S, already a sparkling example of proper performance, sweet handling and drop-top exhilaration, and then shave off as much as weight and frippery as you can manage.

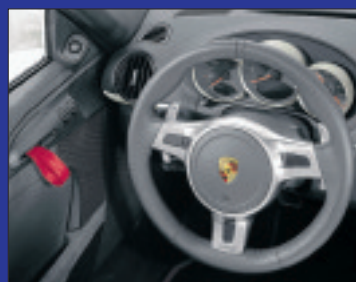

The 3.4-litre flat-six engine gains a modest 10bhp and 7lb.ft of torque over the Boxster S version, but as with the original Spyder it has less weight to push. Just like the popular Club

FACTfile

Porsche
Boxster Spyder

£46,387

ENGINE 3.4-litre petrol unit producing 320bhp and 273lb.ft of torque
TRANSMISSION Six-speed manual gearbox driving the rear wheels
PERFORMANCE 0-60mph 5.1s / top speed 166mph
ECONOMY 29.1mpg (combined)
CO<sub>2</sub> EMISSIONS 228g/km

Sport models of the 1980s and '90s, the Boxster Spyder has gone on a comprehensive diet.

Ditching the fancy electric roof and swapping it for a manual item saves a hefty 21kg, while aluminium doors and engine cover saves a further 18kg. The carbon bucket seats save 12kg, while ditching some of the luxury equipment such as a radio, air conditioning and cup holders saves another 17kg.

Yes, the Spyder is a little lighter in the equipment department too, but if you want you can put these items back. Truth is, that would be missing the point.

Stick with all the weight saving measures available and the Spyder checks in at 1,275kg, 80kg lighter than the Boxster S or a hefty passenger lighter.

Because of the simpler hood layout the rear deck is covered by an aluminium lid with a double bulge, not unlike that on the Carrera GT supercar, giving it more presence than the regular car. It also wears the distinctive Porsche script along the sills, a classic touch which will get fans of the marque recalling previous greats that have done the same.

As you'd expect from Porsche, this is a proper nose-to-tail workover so the mechanicals get a boost to improve response. The suspension is set 20mm lower than a Boxster S with stiffer springs and modified anti-roll bar settings, while a small increase in track front and rear plants it even more firmly on the road.

Your appetite then is well and truly whetted by the time you slide behind the wheel and the Spyder does not disappoint.

Of course, the temptation when spending this kind of money is to tick a few option boxes, put in sat-nav and climate control and comfy leather seats, but that misses the point of the Spyder altogether. It's best savoured in truly stripped-down form.

However, one box you must tick is for the sports exhaust. Do so and you have a button on the dash that opens up the full vocal range of the flat six when the conditions are right. This is a car designed for pleasure above all else, so leave the hood down at all costs and savour the sensations. The 3.4-litre unit is as sharp as ever, responding rapidly to throttle inputs and howling happily right round to the rev limiter.

The standard six-speed transmission is snappy and a delight to use, although anyone using their car regularly in traffic might want to consider the excellent PDK dual-clutch transmission. It's not cheap and it adds 25kg, but it improves the fuel economy by 1.3mpg and shaves 10g/km from the CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

The lightness of the Spyder makes itself known through a complete absence of pitching or settling: it just feels solidly pinned to the road surface.

The steering is the usual sweet mixture of delicate response and firm accuracy, encouraging you to be precise and millimetre perfect.

This is certainly not a car for all though. It costs around £4,000 more than an equivalent Boxster S, and although you get sports suspension and aluminium panels, you also get a hood that takes two minutes to erect and less equipment.

If that sounds like poor value, then the Spyder is not your kind of car. If, however, you only pay attention to the weight-loss figures and the thought of shaving half a second to 62mph raises a smile – just sign on the dotted line.

PUBLIC NOTICE - ADMISSION NUMBERS

In accordance with regulation 9 of The Education (Determination of Admission Arrangements) (England) Regulations 1999 (as amended) notice is hereby given that Essex Local Authority (LA) being the admission authority for the following junior and primary schools has determined an admission number for the admission of pupils to the relevant year group* in the academic year 2011/12 which is lower than the Indicated Admission Number set by the net capacity formula.

School	Year Group*	Indicated Admission Number	Published Admission Number
Paringdon Junior School	Y3	54	50
Purford Green Primary School	R	50	30
Spinney Junior School	Y3	68	60
The Henry Moore Primary School	R	74	60

*The year group in which pupils are normally admitted to the school. R = Reception and Y3 = Year 3.

The reasons for determining admissions numbers that are lower than those indicated by the net capacity formula for admissions to the junior and primary schools listed above in 2011/12 are as follows:

Paringdon Junior School

The admission number has been determined at a level that can accommodate forecast demand for places from within the school's priority admissions area and from children with a sibling already attending the school or the partner infant school - Peterswood Infant School and Nursery

The Governing Body and Essex County Council are currently consulting on a proposal to amalgamate Peterswood Infant School and Nursery and Paringdon Junior School to create a primary school which, if approved, will open in January 2011.

Purford Green Primary School****

Purford Green Infant and Purford Green Junior School amalgamated as Purford Green Primary School from 1 January 2009. The admission number for Purford Green Primary School has been determined at a level that can accommodate forecast demand for places from within the school's priority admissions area and from children with a sibling already attending the school.

Spinney Junior School

The admission number has been determined at a level that can accommodate forecast demand for places from within the school's priority admissions area and from children with a sibling already attending the school or the partner infant school.

The Governing Body and Essex County Council are currently consulting on a proposal to amalgamate Spinney Infant School and Nursery and Spinney Junior School to create a new primary school which, if approved, will open in September 2011

The Henry Moore Primary School****

**In addition to the reasons provided above, admission numbers at these schools have been determined to enable the schools to comply with the infant class size limit. The regulations governing infant class sizes specify that, subject to certain exceptions, infant classes of 5, 6 and 7 year olds may not contain more than 30 pupils with a single qualified teacher.

Under the School Admissions (Alteration and Variation of, and Objections to, Arrangements) (England) Regulations 2007, a parent resident in the administrative area of Essex with a child aged between 2 and 5 or with a child of compulsory school age at primary school can object if the Published Admission Number (PAN) for a school is lower than the Indicated Admission Number (IAN).

Such objections should be referred to the Office of the Schools' Adjudicator, Mowden Hall, Staindrop Road, Darlington, DL3 9BG by 31 July 2010.

The adjudicator is only required to determine an objection referred by a parent relating to an admission number for any relevant age group which is lower than the indicated admission number for that age group if not less than 10 eligible parents have referred objections, or one or more such objections jointly, which are about the same admission arrangements and raise the same or substantially the same issue.

Further information about the admission number or about a parent's right of objection may be obtained from the School Organisation and Planning Team, Schools, Children and Families, PO Box 4261, Chelmsford, CM1 1GS, by telephoning 01245 436891 or by emailing admin.strategy@essex.gov.uk

Youngsters bounce back for plate victory

HARLOW U-13's bounced back from early defeats to win the plate competition at the Bognor festival on Sunday.

The Rams, weakened by injuries including scrum-half and skipper Alfie Clark, lost two games.

They went down 24-0 to a team called Vipers from Leicestershire and 19-0 to Woodford before they were put into the plate competition.

Harlow put in a good performance against hosts Bognor and won 33-0.

The Rams scored five tries, four of which were converted, before they went on to beat the Vipers 5-0 in the final.

The Rams' sole try came in the first half before they were forced to defend strongly in the second half.

In a Colchester tournament, Harlow U-14's lost three of four pool matches.

The Rams were beaten 19-0 by Colchester A team and then defeated Upminster 15-0 thanks to tries from Mitchell Sinfield, Billy Clark and David Westgarth.

Kylan Adams scored a try and Chay Clark kicked a conversion when Harlow lost 33-7 to Cheshunt before the Rams lost to Brentwood 5-0.

In the Goblet (plate) semi-final, Harlow drew 7-7 with South Woodham Ferrers but the latter went through because they had scored the first try.

Harlow U-15's defeated close rivals Upper Clapton 34-0 at home after building up a commanding first-half lead of 20-0.

The hosts' tries came from Kurtis Knightley (2), Zacki Chamnaouie, Andre Riddell and Jess Healy.

Josh Davies kicked three conversions and a penalty.

Harlow U-17's were short of players for their match at Old Alleynians who sportingly lent some players to the Rams.

Harlow lost 41-17 with Jordan Dunn scoring a try while David Briggsenaw kicked a conversion and a penalty. The other Rams try came from a borrowed Alleynian player.

Other result: Harlow Colts 17, Colchester Colts 61.

Rams thrashed in final league match

THE Rams' league campaign ended on a low note as they were thrashed by Saffron Walden on Saturday.

Despite scoring three very good tries of their own, Harlow had no real answer to the speed and skill of Walden's backs.

Harlow have improved in the second half of the season and finished eighth, but they need to up their concentration in defence next term.

The visitors went ahead on three minutes when good backs play set up winger Rob Mackie to dash over for an unconverted try.

Walden bounced back with three tries on 13, 22 and 24 minutes, two of which were converted by Tom Hughes.

Harlow were also handicapped by prop Paul Prindville being sin-binned after the first try.

A line-out move set up Jamie Beswick for a try and the same Walden player dashed over for his second try from a scrum close to the Harlow line before David Philp outpaced the Harlow defence to score an unconverted try.

Harlow fought back and scored their second try on 26 minutes.

A good attacking move by the Harlow backs set up a scoring pass for skipper Scott Romaine to touch down.

Michael Dobson kicked the conversion.

Walden struck back when scrum-half Will Brown spotted a gap in the Harlow defence and dashed over from 35m.

Hughes kicked the conversion and Harlow trailed 26-12 at the break.

Any chance Harlow had of getting back was destroyed as Walden scored two tries in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

Philp followed up a kick ahead from Mark

Kimberly to score his second try before good forward play set up Brown for his second try.

Hughes kicked both conversions and Walden led 40-12.

Harlow then scored a well-worked try from a rolling maul with Romaine touching down. Dobson kicked the conversion.

Harlow defended well until the final 10 minutes when they allowed Saffron Walden to run in two tries.

Ben Lockyer teed up prop Stephen Mugeridge to score a try before neat backs play set up Philp for a try.

Hughes kicked both conversions to complete a resounding defeat for Harlow.

HARLOW: Brown (Smith 49), Mackie, McFerran, Vanbeck, Grimley, Dobson, Woodington, Lane, Wilkins, Prindville, Eynon, Palmer (Hawkins 70), Romaine, M. Bowering (Branch 19) Claridge.

GB has Faith in Euro ace Pitman

GREAT Britain judoka Faith Pitman insists she will take things one step at a time in her bid for international stardom as she puts the finishing touches on her preparations for next week's European Judo Championships.

The 24-year-old, from Hookfield in Harlow, will compete in the Under-63kg category in Austrian capital Vienna (April 22-25) during the first major championship of the year, with her main aim to improve on the second round exit she suffered at last year's Europeans and World Championships.

Pitman said: "Last year we started a new Olympic cycle and the focus was on getting the foundations right and honing our judo skills," she said.

"We are starting to perform and the skills we were working on are starting to shine through and people are beginning to medal on a regular basis rather than just once in a while.

"Obviously I would love to get a medal – it would be my first European medal as a senior – but firstly I want to see development in my judo as that is what I have been working on.

"I am still developing into judo and I am starting to pull together and hopefully that will enable me to do well at the Europeans."

Pitman lost out to Holland's Elisabeth Willeboordse during last year's Euro Champs and admits she will have to hit the mat running this year with the repechage only coming into effect in round two – leaving competitors who fall at the first hurdle to pack their bags and head home.

Judo

"I am definitely going to take things one step at a time in Vienna and it is difficult in judo because your fight can last one second or three minutes," she explained.

"You can be on the mat for 20 seconds and your Europeans can be over so it is all about staying in the fight and doing your best to fight hard.

"The first fight is so important now and you have to have a totally different mindset because if you lose your first fight you are out. That makes it quite difficult to train for and focus yourself on that.

"There are a lot of European fighters getting medals on the world stage just because there are so many countries on the full-time system now.

"So you can't just sit back anymore, you have got to analyse beforehand because there are so many players and so many things involved in judo.

"You have got France, Germany, Russia and a lot of Eastern bloc countries really competing now and it will be a tough competition."

At Woodford, Alicia McArdell won three events. These were in the 70m hurdles, high jump and 1,500m.

Her time of 5:28.5 in the U-13 girls 1,500m put her 19th in the UK.

She followed home Harlow's first finisher David Ayling who ran a superb 3:36.08.

Hawks in 9-goal thriller

THE Hawks showed their fighting qualities at Romford but these were not enough as they slipped to their seventh consecutive defeat.

Harlow Town twice trailed by three goals before losing by the odd goal in nine on Tuesday.

Harlow gave a first-team debut to 18-year-old reserve centre-half Sam Weaver, while Paul Kear returned after a hamstring injury.

Mark Taylor skipped the side in the absence of Lee Protheroe (coaching course).

Romford were the better side at the start and went ahead on 11 minutes.

Andy Edmunds fired in after a cross from Toran Senghore and seven minutes later Edmunds turned provider as his cross from the right was finished by

Romford 5, Harlow Tn 4
Ryman League, division one north

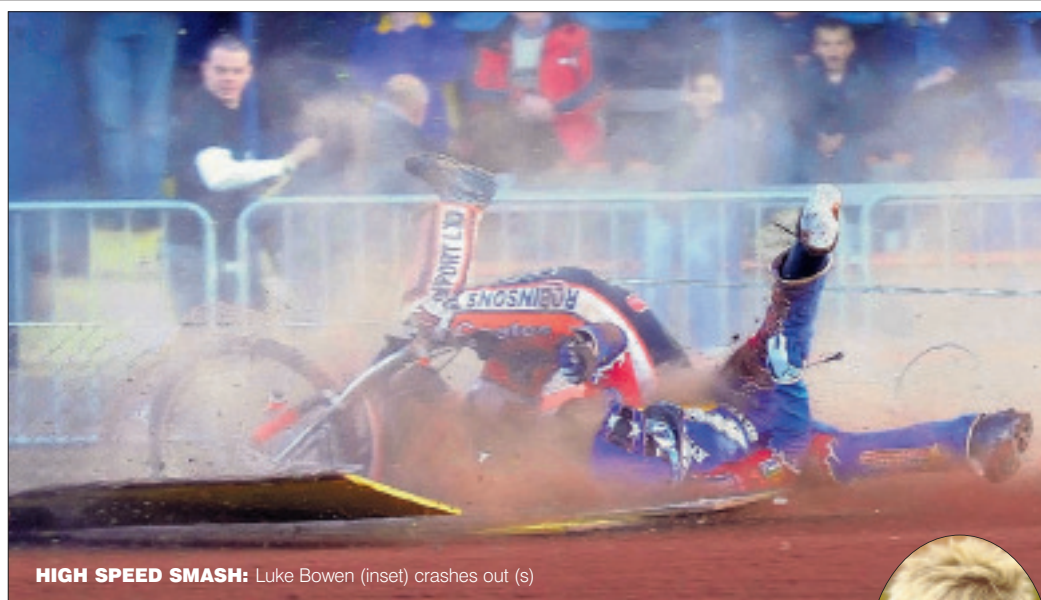

Kurt Smith.

Romford went 3-0 up when Senghore fired in from 25 yards and there were fears of the repeat 6-0 drubbing Harlow suffered against Wingate & Finchley.

Hawks acting boss Kevin Warren said: "Our back four had never played together and we have had young central defenders before but our performance in the first half was not good enough. All 11 were not good enough."

Harlow pulled a goal back on 57 minutes when a Taylor through ball set up Emmanuel Osei on the right.

HIGH SPEED SMASH: Luke Bowen (inset) crashes out (s)

Bowen in horror crash

LUKE Bowen is set to miss Rye House Rockets' Premier Trophy clash at Somerset on Friday after being involved in a horrific crash in the match against King's Lynn Stars, writes ANDREW FRANZAK.

The Harlow speedway rider has been plagued by injuries over the years, so it was a heart-stopping moment for the crowd as he hurtled through the pits bend safety fence at the Huddesdon raceway during Heat 5 of Rockets' 48-42 victory on Saturday.

Bowen and Jordan Frampton got the jump ahead of Stars' number one Tomas Topinka. The Czech then tried to go outside the Rockets pair coming off the fourth bend, but although getting past Frampton he locked together with Bowen and took himself and the Harlow rider into the first bend safety fence in a frightening crash.

The match was delayed for half an hour while paramedics attended to the pair, who were amazingly able to walk away from the incident, and the safety fence was rebuilt.

The excluded Topinka then withdrew from the remainder of the meeting suffering severe bruising and a suspected torn muscle in his leg.

Bowen, despite nursing a painful shoulder, bravely returned to partner Frampton to a 5-1 in the re-run. Bowen won three of his five races on the night.

However, the injury is worse than at first suspected, and Bowen will definitely miss the Somerset match.

"Luke continued riding through the pain because that's the way he is, but it was obviously adrenaline which kept him going. He went for a check up the next day and he's got ligament damage to his shoulder. He'll be seeing a specialist on Monday."

To add to Bowen's misfortune he suffered a blown engine in the pits on Saturday, as did two other riders - Kyle Hughes and Jordan Frampton. "It's rotten luck for all of them as they face hefty bills for new engines - around £1,000 each," said Silver.

Warren wants to end season on a high

ACTING Hawks boss Kevin Warren is determined that Harlow Town's desperate season finishes on a high when they play Ilford away this Saturday.

Harlow will finish bottom of Ryman League division one north no matter what happens but Warren underlined that players are playing for a spot in next season's squad.

He said: "We want to finish with a win and go out on a high. The players are all on trial for next season."

"They have to show they are worth their shirt. We want three points and to carry on the improvement shown in the second half on Tuesday [at Romford]."

Warren expects Harlow will be stronger at the back than they were at Romford as the Hawks aim to get their fifth away league win of the campaign.

He said: "We will have Lee Protheroe back. Liam Thomas will be back from suspension and Frank Curley will also be available."
